

FORRESTER

OF TORWOOD

The Forresters of Torwood are generally accepted to have shared common ancestry with Forrester of Corstorphine and although this is unsubstantiated by extant evidence, it is alluded to in the similarities in heraldry used by them which are emblazoned thus; Forrester of Garden: Argent, three hunting horns sable, garnished gules, and Forrester of Corstorphine: A shield couché, charged with three hunting horns, stringed.

MALCOLM FORRESTER, 1ST OF PITTENTOSCAL, of uncertain parentage, is the first confirmed ancestor and it is probable that he was a son of Robert Forrester who was a prominent customar of Stirling in the last years of the 14th and early part of the 15th centuries. He submitted the accounts for that burgh to the Royal exchequer for the period 9 May 1409 to 17 July 1410 and had died between the next accounting period, being that from 17 July 1410 to 7 June 1412.¹

Malcolm Forrester is first found in record on 29 June 1448 when he witnessed a charter by Janet de Fenton, one of the heirs of Walter de Fenton of Baky, and relict of Robert Stewart, son of the deceased Sir David Stewart of Rosyth, granting the quarter-part of the lands of Baky to William Halket.² He is then named in two charters expedite under the Great Seal on 5 July 1450 in favour of his grandson and heir, Robert Forrester, the first of these being for his half lands of Pittentoscal and the second for those of Little Kettleston belonging to his wife, Elizabeth Noble, and in which liferents are reserved to both Malcolm and Elizabeth. He m. Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Noble of Littlekettlestoun, and was father of :

ALEXANDER FORRESTER, FIAR OF PITTENTOSCAL, the eldest son who is said to have m. a daughter of Bruce of Clackmannan. He d. vita patris and was father of :

ROBERT FORRESTER OF PITTENTOSCAL AND 1ST OF TORWOOD, had a charter under the Great Seal for the middle-part of the lands of Pittentoscals as heir to his grandfather, Malcolm Forrester of Pittentoscals, on 5 July 1450 and had a second charter of that date for the lands of Little Kettleston, in the sheriffdom of Linlithgow, as heir to his grandmother, Elizabeth Noble.¹ He was apud le Torwood by 1457 when he had a payment from the exchequer for thirty-three merks Scots from the customs of Bute² and had acquired rights to the lands of Torwood by 1458 when under the designation Robert Forestare de Torwod he received another payment from the customs of Bute.³ He received a further payment from those customs in 1460⁴ and d. after then and before 12 February 1463. He m. Margaret Livingston whom, as his relict, had instruments on 7 April 1478, relating to the request of Robert Forrester, her late husband's cousin, to be infeft in the lands of Mungwell,⁵ and was father of :

1. MALCOLM FORRESTER, 3RD OF TORWOOD, had succeeded his father in the lands of Torwood by 1464 when he had his fee as forester of Torwood remitted to him by the the King.⁶ He had a further payment from the exchequer in that same year from the customs of Bute⁷ and had a charter from Richard Porteous for his 2 merk lands lying on the east side of the town of Dunipace on 21 August 1475.¹ He had a charter for the lands of Carbrock and Gartincaber from his brother, Alexander, on 11 May 1477, in which they are styled sons of the deceased Robert Forrester of Torwood,² and acquired a further two oxgates of lands at Dunipace from Sir Oliver Sinclair of Roslyn by Instruments dated 30 November 1482.³ He m. Margaret Harrower whom he infeft in his lands of Smithsquarter, in the sheriffdom of Stirling, on 4 March 1472/3,⁴ and was living on 26 November 1488 when a liferent of the lands of Torwood was reserved to him in a charter for those lands in favour of Duncan Forrester of Gunnarschaw.⁵ He was father of,

1a) DAVID FORRESTER, YOUNGER OF TORWOOD, in whose favour his father resigned the office of forester of Torwood which was confirmed under the Great Seal on 22 July 1476, and in which he is styled the eldest son and heir.⁶ He m. by 2 June 1476, to Margaret Somerville when they had a charter for the 6 merks lands of Dunipace from his father⁷ and dvp before 4 February 1483.

1a) HENRY FORRESTER, YOUNGER OF TORWOOD AND OF PITTENTOSKAN, who became heir to his father on his elder brother, David's death in about 1483. He is said to have suffered some form of forfeiture of his lands for his support of King James III. at the battle of Sauchieburn fought on 11 June 1488 and, although there does not appear to be evidence to prove this, there may be a degree of fact in the statement as the lands of Torwood were conveyed by King James IV. to Duncan

MATTHEW FORRESTER, was a Bailie and Sheriff of Stirling of considerable importance and note and for whom there is a substantial body of evidence but all of which is entirely silent on the matter of his parentage. He is generally accepted to have been a younger son of Robert Forrester, 1st of Torwood, and although that is very likely correct, it remains unproven. He is first named in 1458 in relation to a loan he made to the King when in Flanders² and was witness to a charter by Agnes de Airth granting part of the lands of Carnock to Alexander Forrester and Agnes Livingston, his wife, dated 12 February 1463.³ On 10 November 1471 Thomas Somerville of Batlaw gave warning to him of his intention to redeem the lands of Airthbeg and Lawquarter which were under reversion.⁴ He renounced the wadset of the lands of Pittendreich in favour of Henry Elphinstone of Pittendreich on 3 May 1472, which had been wadset to him on payment of 40 merks redemption money and is styled a sheriff of Stirling at a session of that court on 12 July 1473.⁵ He was infeft in ten merks worth of land near the church of Kippen on 16 August 1473, resigned his lands of Dargraw, in Perthshire, to John Drummond of Cargill on 21 March 1473/4 and bound himself to observe the points of his daughter, Isabella's marriage contract with Sir John Lundy of that
